The Centre of Teaching and Learning is the result of a vision and a scientific debate that lasted many years in the field of University Pedagogy. Its goal is to promote and create a community of learning, innovation, and continuous improvement of teaching at the D.U.Th. The Centre supports faculty members and lecturers into exchange views and create good practices of learning and teaching, to record their needs, to reflect, to develop modern and effective educational actions, including the use of ICT in the teaching of university courses. Most importantly, it aims to create a culture of support among members of our academic community to create modern educational environments that will facilitate and support our students' learning in the best possible way.
